Dear Prof Zhang,

I am very pleased to invite you to visit the Renewable Energy Group in Penryn Campus at the University of Exeter on 15-17 September 2014 after your trip to an academic conference in London.

The purpose of this visit will be to interchange information about our research activities and capabilities, mainly in redox flow batteries, currently carried out in our group, we are also very interested to hear about your current plans and research activities and capabilities. We hope that we will be able to establish a common ground and set the basis for future research collaboration, applications for research funds and students interchange.

I look forward to seeing you in Penryn Campus in Cornwall and to explore possible collaborations and to share our experiences on different areas of electrochemical engineering.

Please do not hesitate to contact me if you require more information and I hope that this letter will be sufficient to comply with the corresponding paper work. In the meantime I wish you have pleasant and safe journey when you travel to London and later to Cornwall.

Yours sincerely
